Fragment of a scored censer lid - no rim remains. The entire fragment has been chond - the interior included. The surface is very rough: the scored side is pious and lumpy, while the unscored side has a number of randomly oriented scratches + abrasions which are all very shallow. The incisions are wide (1.3 cm) and deep (1.2 cm) + the horizontal groove post dates the vertical groove - clay has been pulled through the vertical groove. The margin of the grooves are slightly ragged + they protrude above the surface proper of the fragment. There is no paint, slip, applique, handle scar, or foot scar.
